Leon Guerrero

TASI @ Bank, a community business bank based in San Francisco, has expanded into the San Diego market and has relocated Jesus H. Leon Guerrero, vice president/relationship manager, to cover the territory. TASI Bank (www.tasi.bank) has operated a branch in San Francisco's Financial District since 1982, as a division of Bank of Guam @ with total net assets of approximately $450 million.

"We have been thinking about the market for a while," said Dave Joves, president of TASI Bank. "We are confident that we can duplicate our San Francisco model with a conservative approach. Because of our owners (Bank of Guam [@])," we can look far down the road and take a steady approach to growth."

Added Leon Guerrero, "I am excited about bringing our small and medium-sized business and online banking services to San Diego. I've found the markets similar to the Bay Area and potential customers are very interested in learning our unique story and what we can provide them."

Joves added, "While we have had a presence in the Financial District of San Francisco for decades we have developed a reputation and style that allows us to take advantage of technology and online services. Also, the heritage of our Bank of Guam ownership is extremely helpful. For instance, there are similarities between Guam with its dependence on federal contracts and tourism and San Diego which also leans in that direction."

Leon Guerrero, a 10-year veteran of TASI Bank, also manages business in Los Angeles and Orange counties.
